The family's income needs to be documented through a pay check showing monthly gross income from their employer(s). If the income varies from month to month documentation from the employer(s) is required. This documentation must be no older than three months. A copy of the tax certificate can also be attached.

If you have cohabitated with your partner for more than two years, both incomes will be included in the calculation.

If you are self-employed you must attach a copy of last year's tax return, confirmed as authentic by the tax office. In addition you must send in a trade form or account form certified by an authorized public accountant, where interest on debt in your own company are recorded. Other types of income can be documented by copies of benefit letters etc.

Applications without documentation will be returned.

Reduced payment will not be paid retroactively. This means that even though you were entitled to reduced payment before you sent the application, you will not receive any money for previous periods.

If your income changes during the year you must report your new income and send documentation by own initiative (unsolicited).

Deliberately wrong information about income may lead to termination of the after-school contract.

Parents/guardians are asked to fill out the form on the next page, and mail/deliver it together with the necessary attachments to the school for processing.
